There are a few products that don't specify a key at all, but the idea is that you key is whatever is written into the 1st 8-bit part of the productkey file. The first 8 bits are "02". Once you know what the last 8 bits are - say "01" - you can write that into a file as-is, or do what ever magic you want with those bytes (non-randomly change the "1" to a "2"). As an example, using Notepad, you could get that last 8 bytes by right clicking ProductkeyForStereoscopicPlayerKeyGen.exe, and selecting "Copy". Then you paste the bytes into Notepad. You can delete the text that says "2" if it annoys you. Mathematical model of photobiological processes in cell culture. The influence of multiline ultraviolet-B radiation (UV-B), on the proliferation of V-79-379A cells in culture was investigated, and the experimental results were modelled with a mathematical function that takes into account the damage and the repair processes. The exponential growth is described through the equation: $y = y(0) e^{\lambda t}$. As the numbers of the cells and the duration of irradiation increase, the growth rate decreases. The dose required to kill 50% of cells is obtained for the
